

“True talent lies in the ability to create, to inspire, and to build a connection from one heart to another”– Susnata Bandyopadhyay

Susnata Bandyopadhyay is a multifaceted artist who has established a distinct identity as a singer, lyricist, composer, poet, storyteller, and author. His creative works are marked by a harmonious blend of profound emotion, humanity, and artistic excellence, earning admiration from both readers and listeners.

His artistic journey demonstrates that when genuine talent is combined with passion, perseverance, and unwavering dedication, it has the power to create a lasting impact.

At the age of just 13, he began singing while simultaneously entering the world of creativity through writing songs, poems, and stories. From that early stage, his journey has been enriched by commitment, hard work, and a relentless pursuit of excellence.

Over the years, he has written the lyrics for numerous songs, composed their melodies, and served as their music director. He has also lent his own voice to many of his original compositions. His songs beautifully explore themes of love, life, society, and human emotions. The seamless fusion of meaningful lyrics with captivating melodies has given his creations a distinctive identity.

Among his notable works is “Alor Srote Bhese” (Floating in the Stream of Light), which he wrote, composed, and musically directed at the age of 17. The song was performed by internationally acclaimed singer Shaan.

Another significant work, “Pash Katiye Tor” (Passing By You), was written, composed, and musically directed by him at the age of 16 and was performed by Ankita Bhattacharya, renowned for her appearance on Sa Re Ga Ma Pa.

His song “Hoye Jete Pari Tor” (I Could Become Yours), for which he wrote the lyrics, composed the melody, and served as music director, was performed by Barenya Saha and Saheli Chakraborty.

He also wrote, composed, and musically directed “Alpo Niler Golpo” (A Tale of a Little Blue), which was performed by Sujay Bhowmik, the first champion of Sa Re Ga Ma Pa.

In response to the widely discussed tragic incident involving a doctor from R.G. Kar Medical College, he wrote, composed, musically directed, and personally performed the protest song “Chetana Ferate Hobe” (We Must Awaken Our Conscience).

Internationally acclaimed singer Akriti Kakkar has also performed songs under his composition and music direction. In addition, many more Bengali and Hindi songs—written, composed, and musically directed by him—are awaiting release in his own voice as well as in the voices of several well-known artists from both Bollywood and Tollywood.

Beyond Bengali poetry and songs, Susnata has also written a significant number of English poems and songs. His English literary works reflect a global perspective, universal human values, and a poetic beauty that transcends linguistic boundaries.

His talent is not confined to music alone. He is also a gifted storyteller. His stories combine intellectual depth, human emotions, and realistic portrayals of life, leaving a lasting impression on readers.

Through years of dedicated practice, unwavering commitment, and continuous creative pursuit, Susnata Bandyopadhyay has evolved into a complete artist. At just 26 years of age, his creativity, sincerity, diligence, and distinctive artistic vision as a singer, lyricist, composer, poet, storyteller, and author have earned him widespread appreciation from audiences and readers alike.
